SEASON 1939

IMP. CHALLENGER II

BAY HORSE, 1927

Thence back to Burton Barb Mare (No. 2 Family).

*CHALLENGER II was unbeaten as a two-year-old in England. He won the Clearwell Stakes at Newmarket with 133 pounds up and the Richmond Stakes at Goodwood with 122 pounds up.

In thirteen renewals of the English Derby to 1936, sons and grandsons of Swynford have won six times; have been second three times and third once.

In the six renewals of the Kentucky Derby from 1931 to 1936, sons of Swynford produced three of the winners.

Four of the English Derby winners were by Swynford's great son, Blandford. A reference to Blandford's pedigree will show *Challenger II to be bred more like Blandford than any other horse in the Stud Book. Gondollette is also the dam of Sansovino, a son of Swynford, winner of the English Derby and now a very successful sire. Gondollette is grandam of *Pharamond II and *Sickle.

Through his bottom line *Challenger II goes back to that great mare, Amphora, who was sister to Sundridge, sire of Sunstar, Sun Briar and Jest.

*CHALLENGER II was bred to twelve mares his first season. The produce was twelve foals; eleven of them raced. Ten of them have won and one has placed, including Challephen, stakes winner.

*CHALLENGER II's second crop consisted of seventeen foals. They were two-year-olds of 1936. All of them have won. Among them were Challite, Goya, The Schemer and Savage Beauty, stakes winners.

*CHALLENGER II's third crop, two-year-olds of 1937 consisted of ten foals. Five of them have won, three have placed, two have never started to date.

*CHALLENGER II's fourth crop, now two-year-olds, consisted of ten foals. Three of them have won, among them the stakes winner Challedon, four have placed, and three have never started to date.

CHALLEDON was winner of The Maryland Futurity, The New England Futurity and The Pimlico Futurity, earning a total of $67,700, which makes him the second highest money-winning two-year-old of 1938.

*CHALLENGER II's first four crops consisted of fifty-one foals. Forty-five of them have raced. Thirty-six have won. Eight others have placed. Six have been stakes winners.

FEE $1000. One Year Return Privilege.

Stallion Notes

Breeders who have not yet booked their mares for the 1939 season will need to get busy soon for the books of many of the stallions are reported by their owners to be filling rapidly. *Challenger II is announced as full. Adolphe Pons reports the bookings to his horses to be more numerous at this time than has been the case in previous years. *Kantar's book is another that is fast filling, the deeds of his sons *Khasnadar and Victrix in France having drawn considerable attention to the son of Alcantara II. Leslie Keiffer tells us that Jean Bart has drawn a fine list of mares, there being no services open to this good son of Man o' War.

Maryland's stallion list remains much as it did last year. Trojan and Boo are dead. Balko has gone to California. Four Spades has been returned to Depot duty by the Remount Service. Polar Flight is still here, but it is likely that his owner, Fred M. Alger, Jr., will move the horse to his home state of Michigan for next season. These seem to be about all the removals from the state's stallion ranks.

Newcomers to the sires' list include Tedious, chestnut son of *Teddy who covered a few mares at the end of the 1938 season at his owner's Sagamore Farm and who has now been retired for good, and John R. Macomber's Petee-Wrack. Petee-Wrack made his Maryland debut three days after his arrival here by appearing at the Stallion Parade, where some five hundred persons were out in the infield to inspect the stallions, besides the many who lined the rail of the Pimlico track to watch the horses parade.

The chestnut stallion First Flag, son of Penant and Betsy Ross by Man O' War, and brother of Wave On, has been sold by Sagamore Farm to Mrs. Dave H. Morris, Jr., and her brother Sanford Agnew. First Flag will be bred to the mares on their Orchard Point Farm, on Quaker Neck, near Chestertown. At Orchard Point there are some good mares for producing hunters and it is mainly as a prospective hunter sire that First Flag has been purchased. The horse should do well in the Quaker Neck community where there are many mares.

MONKTON, MARYLAND

Maryland's horse activities are now getting into their winter phase. Racing has come to an abrupt end with Bowie's four last days cancelled. Fox hunting is the order of the day from Cecil County in the north where Wm. DuPont's Foxcatcher Hounds have their country; through Harford County, where the Elkridge-Harford Hunt is busy; in Baltimore County, where John K. Shaw, Jr., hunts the Green Spring Hounds in the hilly Worthington Valley territory; in Howard County, Home of the Howard County Hunt, Augustus Riggs, M.F.H.; in Carroll County, where Henry L. Straus' Carrollton Hunt is kept busy; in Southern Maryland, where the St. Margaret's Hunt Club hunts the Annapolis territory, and where are many small private packs, and on the Eastern Shore, where are Tom Keating's hounds at Centreville, Mr. Riddle's at Berlin, and many another active pack, including that of Wilbur Hubbard at Chestertown. There's no dearth of sport for the hunting man in Maryland.

A Successful First Sale

The first Annual Fall Sales staged by the Maryland Horse Breeders' Association at Pikesville Armory and at Pimlico were very successful and augur well for future vendues. We live and learn, and profit by our original mistakes. For the first night's sale, seats had been provided for 700, none being reserved for would-be bidders. By 8.00 P. M., when, as advertised, the sale actually did start, there was not a seat to be had anywhere, many bidders climbing up on the stalls to signal the auctioneer of their wants.

73 head were sold the first night for a total of $18,545, an average of $254 a head. Considering that twenty of these lots were from the Montalvo Stud receivership, and that they represented little to attract bidders the average was good. The bids were signaled in lights by means of mechanism rigged up by the clever staff of Henry L. Straus' American Totalisator Company. The hip-numbers and bids were flashed as they changed, the innovation drawing considerable favourable criticism from the crowd. At times when the bidding was fast the lights fell behind a bid or two, but as soon as there was a pause they were right there.

Of the larger consignments the 17 head from Sagamore Farm brought an average of $473. The 8 head from Robert S. Clarke's stud averaged $441. The large Montalvo Stud consignment's top price was but $130. Among the buyers were Frank Orsatti of Los Angeles who flew in for the sale and bought Balko, *By Pass and three mares; Gary Black, who bought the top priced mare among a number of purchases on the two nights of the sale; W. H. Laboyteaux, of Holmdel, N. J., who bought two of the higher priced mares for his stud; H. A. Heckman, of Cincinnati, who purchased the top priced yearling; R. Wroth Stavelly, of Chestertown, who, with Carroll Hadaway, bought a number of mares; H. C. Jenifer, of Towson, shopping for mare bargains with his friend Frank Dudley, Jr., of Queenstown, both buying.

Before the second night's sale additional seats for 400 more were installed, and a block of seats was reserved for bidders. Still, when proceedings commenced at 8.00 P. M., the seats were filled. With more space the loud speaker system for announcing was better, things generally worked smoother. 68 lots, all yearlings, went under the hammer of Auctioneer Milton J. Dance, for a total of $42,625, for an average of $627. Audley Farm topped the sale with a Hadagal filly out of Smart Crack's dam, which Frank Christmas bought for $3,500. The 13 Audley Farm yearlings averaged $960. The 12 head from Mrs. David A. Buckley, Jr.'s High Acre Farm averaged $823.

More trainers and owners of racing stables were noted around the ringside the second night of the sale. Among the buyers were Thos. J. Healy, and his son Jack, who bought a couple; John E. Hughes of Chicago and Middleburg, Va., shopping for likely fillies with ultimate paddock value; Elmer Trueman and his wife, who is as good a judge of a pedigree or a horse as the next one; T. P. Morgan, of Texas, who was with W. T. Anderson, who raced Carlaris, both bidding on Audley lots; J. V. "Irish Jimmy" Stewart, looking for fillies, in the racing of which he excels; Charles R. Fleischmann, enthusiastic about the set-up and the Straus light invention; Yancey Christmas, who bought two of the top priced Grand Times for himself, in the hope of getting another Rough Time.

Dr. Louis M. Allen was bidding on likely show hunter prospects. Redmond Stewart, Jr., son of a famous father, was buying hunter prospects, bidding often against his friend and neighbour Stuart S. Janney, Jr.; M. Nelson Bond was busy scouting for likely racing talent for son Bowes to train for him.

Wednesday's sale was of horses in training, staged at Pimlico, in the paddock. Here 28 horses in training averaged $501, totalling $14,035. Top price was Grass Cutter's $6,100, paid by Theodore Mueller to George D. Widener for the good *Sickle gelding. Guy Bedwell was underbidder on this one. Evening Light, a Jack High filly out of the good mare Evening, sold by Mrs. Widener brought $1,650, second highest price. Hunter buyers took many of the lots, several of which were not in racing condition. E. H. Hackney, represented by John Pons got a fine breeding prospect in Modest for his small but select stud at Darlington.

The Editor's Saddle-Bag

The period from October 15 to November 15, that normally would have been covered by this installment of The Editor's Saddle-Bag having been largely spent in the confines of the office, due to exigencies of the sales business, this feature of the magazine has been dropped for this month. It will be resumed with the period from November 15th on in the January issue of THE MARYLAND HORSE.

Challedon

Early this fall there drifted in from New England stories of a Maryland-bred two-year-old colt that was going to win the Maryland Futurity, and to prove a top horse all around. The repeated stories told of the fine class of a bay colt by *Challenger II that Louis Schaefer was training for W. L. Brann, by the name of Challedon. So many were the stories and from such credible sources that we commenced to think that for once the forecasters were right.

When Challedon won the Maryland Futurity the elements of racing luck were with him, but he showed himself to be a colt of class. Then when he went north to score in the Narragansett race, the New England Futurity, we were sure the colt was good. It remained for the decisive victory scored by the Brann colt in the Pimlico Futurity to stamp him as one of the very best of this year, barring none. In the Baltimore race, Challedon shuffled out of contention until the back stretch was reached when Jockey George Seabo found his opening and gradually moved the colt into contention. In the stretch Challedon caught and passed, first Gilded Knight, then the favorite, Third Degree, drawing out into a lead of more than two lengths at the finish line.

Challedon ran the mile and one-sixteenth in 1.45 4/5, earning $28,770 by his win. The colt goes into winter quarters at Bennings in second place to El Chico on the two-year-old winnings' list with $67,800 to his credit. It is planned to start Challedon in the Kentucky Derby next year, provided he trains well for the race. Certainly this outstanding Maryland-bred should do well next year, bred as he is.

Challedon's sire *Challenger II, is from Swynford's male line, this being one noted for stamina and "bottom" rather than precocity. Dam of Challedon is Laura Gal, a Woodward-bred daughter of *Sir Gallahad III and Laura Dianti, by *Wrack. The *Sir Gallahad III cross will be of assistance to Challedon when the questions are asked the three-year-olds next summer. Challedon's picture was on our front cover last month, this month we present it once more, this time showing something more of the make and shape of the Brann color bearer.

Heiser Handicap

A heavy track did much to mar the running of the Heiser Handicap at Pimlico, causing four scratches in the field, thus leaving but three to compete for the $2500 added money. Winner of the stake was Gustave Ring's Lady Maryland, bred by Mrs. H. S. Raskob and trained by P. DaLee Watts. One of the few of the get of *Sir Greysteel that appear to like muddy going, Lady Maryland beat the fast finishing Unheralded and Toddle On, who had set the early pace.

Lady Maryland, now four, has won 11 races, finished second eight times, third seven times out of 44 starts. $11,652 is the amount of her winnings. Lady Maryland's pedigree is appended.

Stallion Parade

A good crowd was out in Pimlico's infield at noon Futurity Day when nine of Maryland's Thoroughbred stallions gathered for their annual parade. Present were Hirsch Jacobs' Action, by Olambala-Violet Play, by Fair Play, recently returned from training to Cannaday Farm, where he will make the season of 1939; Glastonbury by *Sir Gallahad III-Bignonia by Jim Gaffney, owned by Jack McPherson and Chester F. Hockley and brought in from the latter's Winnaford Farm; Identify, son of Man o' War and *Footprint by Grand Parade, from Alfred Vanderbilt's Sagamore Farm; Lee Rosenberg's Futurity winner, Kerry Patch, by Desperate Desmond out of Polly McWiggles by *Light Brigade, now located at Merryman Black's Willow Brook Farm.

A newcomer to Maryland's stallion ranks is the strapping big Petee-Wrack, owned by John R. Macomber of Boston and recently sent to Frank A. Bonsal, Jr.'s Mantua Farm where the son of *Wrack and Marguerite by Celt will now make his home. The brown Polar Flight, by Witchmount or Byrd-Damoris by Sain, owned by Fred M. Alger, Jr. of Detroit, came down from his Maryland home at Mrs. John Bosley, Jr.'s Foxhill Farm. Major G. L. Stryker showed Sun Circle, brown son of *Sun Briar and *Conference by *Rock Sand, from his Springfield Farm. Another newcomer is the strapping big chestnut Tedious, by *Teddy-Duration, by *Hourless who came from Sagamore, and, acting as rearguard, came Mrs. R. H. Heighe's Theatrical, by Lemonora out of Eastern Pageant by Grand Parade, who was brought in for the occasion from Prospect Hill Stud, and who appeared to be thoroughly enjoying the affair.

The stallions paraded down the track in front of a large crowd which lined the rail all down the front of the stands and clubhouse, acting as sedately as a parade of aldermen.

A Horse's Age

To tell the age of any horse,
Inspect the lower jaw, of course,
The six front teeth the tale will tell,
And every doubt and fear dispel.

Two middle nippers you behold
Before the colt is two weeks old;
Before eight weeks two more will come;
Eight months the corners cut the gum.

The outside grooves will disappear
From middle two in just one year.
In two years from the second pair—
In three years "corners" too are bare.

At two the middle "Nippers" drop;
At three the second pair can't stop;
When four years old the third pair goes,
At five a full new set he shows.

The deep black spots will pass from view
At six years, from the middle two;
The second pair at seven years:
At eight the spot each corner clears.

From middle "Nippers" upper jaw
At nine the black spots will withdraw.
The second pair at ten are bright;
Eleven finds the corners light.

As time goes on the horsemen know
The oval teeth three sided grow;
They longer get—project—before
Till twenty, when we know no more.

Horse Show Association of Maryland

The third year of the Horse Show Association of Maryland has drawn to a close and the end of the season was celebrated November 16th by a dinner at the Hotel Belvedere, when trophies for the outstanding horse and pony, as well as the "runners up," were awarded.

The successful horse is War Krem, owned by Victor P. Noyes, of Long Green, with a record of 154 points gained at nine shows, while the pony champion is Mrs. W. Graham Boyce's invincible little Sugar Lump, with 148 points won at eleven shows.

War Krem is a brown four-year-old Thoroughbred by *Kremlin II, the latter horse at one time owned by Mrs. H. S. Raskob, of Centerville, and now the property of Augustus Riggs III, master of the Howard County Hunt.

War Krem was ridden in most of his engagements by that superlative horsewoman, Mrs. George ("Babe") Saportas, Jr., of My Lady's Manor, while little Geraldine ("Jerry") Kilby did the honors on Sugar Lump, and did them to the queen's taste.

The runners-up to War Krem were that brilliant, but, at times, temperamental jumper, Toots, a beautiful animal, just outside the 14.2 class, and the big mare Glen Colleen.

Toots, with 57 points to her credit, originally came from the Oldfields (Glencoe) School Stables, but everything she knows about jumping, and she knows a lot, was taught her by her clever owner and rider, John T. Sadler, Jr., of Cockeysville, who comes naturally by his ability in the saddle by his descent from the Merrymans of Hayfields, than whom no better horsemen or horsewomen ever lived.

Mrs. W. Graham Boyce's good pony Sugar Lump, thrice Champion Pony of Maryland. Jerry Kilby, associated with Sugar Lump in many a winning, up.

THE MARYLAND HORSE

Victor P. Noyes' Champion Show Horse of Maryland, War Krem, demonstrates her versatility by jumping bales of straw. Mrs. George Saportas, Jr., who has ridden War Krem all summer, in the saddle.

It is gratifying to note that Orlando Ridout, of Anne Arundel County, made such a good record with his clever mare, Glen Colleen, with a score of 57 also.

Mr. Ridout's family owned Thoroughbreds when the Maryland Jockey Club conducted races at Annapolis in pre-Revolutionary days, and it is hoped he will continue to rank high among the list of winning owners.

Anne Chew Green, of Towson, was, as usual, well up on the pony list with her consistent performer, Miss Virginia, with a record of 123 points at twelve shows. She had a busy season, starting with the McDonogh Show in May, and winding up with the Kiwanis, in October.

Black Buddy, owned by Mrs. E. H. Butt, formerly of England, was third in the pony class, getting 64 points in nine shows. Buddy, a freshman this year, is only two and was ridden most successfully by Harriet Stokes.

Sugar Lump has won the championship three years in succession for his owner and trainer, Mrs. W. Graham Boyce, of Bacon Hall Farm, near Glencoe, and this should entitle this charming equine midget to rank as a super champion, or a triple crown winner, as the victor in the English Two Thousand Guineas, Derby, and St. Leger is called.

He, being six years old, and his graceful rider, little Jerry Kilby, eight years old, are a well matched pair, and one like "two souls with but a single thought (the Blue Ribbon), and two hearts that beat as one."

Much of the success of the past season is due to the cordial cooperation of exhibitors, horse show managers and officials, and particular credit must be given to George William Stephens, Jr., and his very capable secretary, Miss F. Marge Baird, for the satisfactory manner in which the records of the various shows were kept.

The judging was up to the highest standards and the judges performed their arduous duties in a thoroughly capable and conscientious manner.

The Horse Show members of the Horse Show Association of Maryland are, taken in the order of their shows: McDonogh School Fair, Doughoregan Manor, St. Margaret's Hunt Club, Long Green Valley, Sherwood, St. James' Guild, Carroll County, Westminster Riding Club, Long Green Carnival, Harford County Pony, St. Margaret's Church, Timonium Fair, White Hall, Greenspring Hunters, Kiwanis.

Bowie Cancellation

Maryland racing history was made as we went to press when an unprecedented November freeze-up caused the Bowie management to cancel their last four days of racing. The Endurance Handicap and Bryan and O'Hara Memorial Handicap had to be cancelled. No other course was open to Manager Boyle but to cancel as there was solid frozen mud and ice to a depth of five inches on his track and no horseman would run the risk of racing on such a strip. Five days of sub-freezing weather and little or no sunshine to thaw the track out precluded any possibility of it being ready for racing for a long time. Meanwhile horsemen and jockeys were leaving daily for the warmer climates.

New England Notes

The richest and most important race of the New England fall season was won by a Maryland-bred and Maryland-owned two-year-old. The New England Futurity was the race; Challedon, the colt; and Wm. L. Brann, the owner and breeder. It was a brilliant victory for the bay son of *Challenger II and Laura Gal. A trailer in the early stages, Jockey Seabo began moving up slowly but steadily going down the back lane and on the far turn. Getting through on the rail where the going was deepest the youngster went to the front to win going away. Lou Schaefer sent a dead fit horse to the starters' gate and modest Lou deserves all his laurels for the fine job he did. May we add our congratulations officially in print.

To give the day a convincing Maryland tinge, A. G. Vanderbilt's Impound was a good second to the W. L. Brann home-bred. The bay son of Sun Beau and Embargo Arts gave a creditable performance and the future would seem to hold considerable promise for the big, growthy son of the world's greatest money earner. Certain, it is, that such youngsters as Challedon, Impound, and D. Christmas' Solvit should cut a large figure in the three-year-old picture which is just around the corner. It will be most interesting to Marylanders to watch the performances of these three during 1939. Through the long New England season I have seen none better in their division. Conformation, breeding, and performance indicate roseate futures for these three.

An old New England favorite made his last appearance for the season when Rough Time faced the barrier in the \$5,000 Worcester Handicap, contested at a distance of six furlongs. The Yancey Christmas standard-bearer ran his usual hard-hitting, game race and all but had the race won when Stage Beauty, putting on a wild rush in the stretch, just got up on the rail to beat out the flying Grand Time gelding by the shortest of noses. The time of 1:10 $\frac{4}{5}$ was but $\frac{3}{5}$ of a second off the track record. In addition Rough Time conceded twelve pounds to his conqueror. The four-year-old chestnut lost no stature in defeat. May we see more of him again next season.

The Rhode Island Handicap, worth $10,000 and run over a distance of one mile and one-eighth, fell to the flying hooves of the popular War Admiral. What little opposition there was came from old Mucho Gusto, but once the brown bullet went to work, it was all War Admiral. The Man o'Warrior was clear by two and one-half lengths at the finish with Mucho Gusto driving to be second over Busy K.

Again returning to the two-year-old division, it is interesting to note several promising youngsters by High Strung. Well regarded is High Place who has accounted for two purses at this meeting. Taut and Prospectus have also shown good form.

ANTHONY G. MUELLO.

The Championship

All year racetracks have been manoeuvring to bring about a meeting between the cracks of the aged division, Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral, four-year-old son of Man O' War and Brushup by Sweep, and Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit, five years old and by Hard Tack-Swing On by Whiskbroom II. $100,000 was the purse for a meeting arranged for Decoration Day at Belmont. Other attempts to bring the pair together were made until the racing public finally gave up hope of its accomplishment. Yet, as all the racing world knows, the seemingly impossible has been achieved . . . and in a blaze of glory and in a manner to leave a good taste in the mouths of one and all.

November 1 dawned bright and clear at Pimlico. Jarvis Spencer, Jr., who was to decide whether the prescribed fast track was there or not had little difficulty in making up his mind. The track was fast, as Seabiscuit showed some hours later. A great crowd was on hand early. The cash customers still piled in almost until time for the spectacle, 40,000 being the count. As shown by the odds board the crowd favoured War Admiral by 2-1.

The walk up start was effected after two false tries, George Cassidy doing the job, vice Jim Milton, voluntarily standing down for the day in deference to Mr. Riddle's antipathy to Milton's work. At the break Seabiscuit startled one and all by taking the track from the ordinarily very fast breaker War Admiral, and widening on the latter. Two lengths was the lead of the Howard horse into the back stretch. Here the game War Admiral made his move, inching forward so that for one brief moment the brown head was in front of the bay. For the best part of three quarters of a mile the battle was close, two game Thoroughbreds fighting hard for supremacy.

Well into the stretch War Admiral hung onto Seabiscuit, then, steadily, it became apparent that the red and white of Howard was to lead the black and yellow of Glen Riddle. Four lengths was the official verdict at the end, but it was a long four lengths. The time of the race was a new track record, 1.56 $\frac{3}{5}$ for the mile and $\frac{3}{16}$ ths.

It was a great race to watch. One that thrilled the thousands present in a manner not often seen around the race courses. Never has there been a more enthusiastic reception tendered to owner, trainer, jockey and horse than was the case at the Pimlico race. Summed up, from the writer's viewpoint, it appeared that War Admiral was outbroken and outrun; Kurtsinger was definitely outsmarted by Woolfe. Seabiscuit looked in excellent bloom, was quiet and unconcerned as could be. War Admiral looked light and drawn, seemed nervous prior to the race. Much the same could be said, however, about both owners.

Best Horses Poll

Wide open divisional races through late season developments and upsets have stimulated a record poll for the Best Race Horses of 1938, judging from the early returns from Turf and Sport Digest, sponsor of the poll that annually tabulates the racing opinions of America's ranking sports and turf writers. From heavy early returns reported to date upon the ballots mailed November 15, upwards of 500 experts are expected to file their votes this year.

Late season upsets among the two-year-old colts and all-ages divisions, and widely diffused stakes honors in the sections for two-year-old fillies and three-year-olds held the experts' opinions open until deep in the Fall campaign. In the two preceding Best Race Horses of the Year Polls the divisional situations were much clearer than in 1938.

Now firmly established as the most important medium of expert racing opinion in America, this Poll was launched in 1936. That season the great bronze plaques were presented to Hal Price Headley's Apogee, the best two-year-old filly; J. H. Louchheim's Pompoon, the best two-year-old colt; and William Woodward's Granville, the best three-year-old and horse of all-ages.

Last year another double score was recorded when Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral won both the three-year-olds and all-ages divisions. However, in the latter the vote was so close that an additional plaque was given to Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit as the best handicap horse of the year. Hal Price Headley's Menow was voted the best two-year-old colt and Mrs. Edward Friendly's Jacola headed the poll for two-year-old fillies.

This year all eyes were on the undefeated two-year-old El Chico, until Challedon came out in the Fall to sweep through three Futurities and other late developments displayed improvement over a distance of ground. The lengthening out of juvenile races, bringing stamina into play to confirm speed, also developed fillies such as Inskoelda, Ciencia and Big Hurry.

The race that forced most experts to adjust their figures was Seabiscuit's striking victory over War Admiral in their Pimlico match race. In last year's poll only six points, or two out of a total of 450 first place votes, separated the Admiral and the Biscuit.

The ballots call for three selections in each of four divisions; two-year-old fillies, two-year-old colts, three-year-olds and horses of all ages. The first place vote in each section is counted as three points, second place as two and third place as one.

Our personal selections in the Poll are as follows:

Two-year-old colts:	Three-year-olds:
El Chico	Stagehand
Challedon	Jacola
Porter's Mite	Lawrin
Two-year-old fillies:	All ages:
Inskoelda	Seabiscuit
Donita M.	War Admiral
Dinner Date	El Chico

Book Reviews

REDMOND C. STEWART,
Fox Hunter and Gentleman of Maryland
By

GORDON GRAND
Charles Scribner's Sons—$5.00

This long awaited book has finally arrived from the publishers, and it can be said without reservation it is in every respect worthy of its subject, and of its author, who wrote that hunting classic, The Silver Horn.

The binding is in the tasteful dark green and white racing colors, so long associated with Maryland's foremost sportsman, and a foreword by C. D. L. (Charles D. Lanier), is a fitting preparation to a narrative of surpassing interest. The frontispiece is a reproduction in color of the life-like portrait by the late Thomas C. Corner of Redmond Stewart in the hunt costume, pink coat, green velvet collar, of the Green Spring Valley Hounds, of which he was Master for twenty-five years.

Photographs of some of the horses owned by him at various times, including a beautiful head of what he considered the best, Landslide, by Flatlands dam Push, and Mrs. Stewart's grand jumper, Mazarin, by Mazagan, Mr. Stewart up, accompany the text, and there is also a striking picture of Major Stewart in his service uniform.

His horses, his hounds, his friends, his home life, his ideals, his high standards, are described in delightful detail, and the Great War experiences of this truly Christian Soldier are of absorbing interest.

Chronicles of famous hunts, and races, especially the pink coat steeplechase on the Manor, when he defeated his son, Redmond, Jr., after an exciting three-mile run, also anecdotes, and appreciative letters from prominent men all over the country, are recorded in a masterful way, and throughout is manifested that cheerful and unfailing sense of humor that pervaded all his actions.

This is a record of a happy life, that should be an inspiration, especially to the younger generation, to everything that is worth while and of good report.

One of his prized horses was a well bred imported gelding, Philosopher, by Fairy King out of Preluka, and this horse was well named, as his owner was a philosopher, whose philosophy is aptly expressed in the lines:

"Take your fence daily
Boldly and gaily—
With never a falter,
Ride straight to the last." D. S. G.

MORE ABOUT RIDING FORWARD

In this, his latest book on riding, Captain Littauer, discusses further the Forward Seat, taking the line that this seat is but a part of a distinct method of schooling and controlling the mount. The author stresses throughout the need of proper and complete schooling as the foundation of good performance, pointing out that schooling ought not to be considered a separate branch of horsemanship, rather a base whose principle should be taught to one and all. A chapter is devoted to discussing when to use the forward seat, and when not to use it, and why. Then many of the popular misunderstandings of it and arguments against it are considered.

Old fashioned and modern principles of controlling the field horse are compared. Standards for the performance of a field horse are established. The routine of schooling, longeing, early mounted work through to advanced work is considered, a comprehensive table being given showing the normal sequence of the training movements. One is fully instructed in the modern method of making a jumper, for field work or for show ring, and finally the book contains instruction on how to make for one's self a training field for the jumpers.

Priced cheaply at $3.00 and published privately by the author, this is one of the best works on modern riding we have seen. The author is completely master of his subject and the book will serve to clear up the doubts and arguments besetting the new disciple of Forward Riding.

Henry G. Vaughan

Henry Goodwin Vaughan, President of the Masters of Fox Hounds Association, and a recognized authority on fox hunting and kindred sports, died suddenly November 21 from a heart attack suffered on the train enroute from Boston to his home in South Berwick, Maine.

Mr. Vaughan who was in his seventy-first year, had many friends in this part of the country and was a regular attendant at the Maryland Hunt Cup Steeplechase and Hunt Ball, as well as other local sporting events. He frequently hunted with the Elkrige-Harford Hounds and only the Friday before his death had hunted with Mr. and Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart at Cheshire Park, Unionville, Pa., in company with several Baltimoreans.

For over 30 years he was Master of the Norfolk (Mass.) Hunt and he was also interested in yachting and the Eastern Horse Association.

The funeral took place November 25, from St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston, of which he was a former vestryman.

Old and New Pimlico

To those who knew and loved Pimlico in the days of old, the changes visible there on every side seem almost miraculous, and even from the point of view of such an inveterate "laudator temporis acti" as myself, they are all for the better.

I liked the Hilltop, where I watched Father Bill Daly school his jumpers by means of a long handled whip and a rope and such persuasive language as only an Irish pastmaster in the art of expression could employ, and I particularly enjoyed his vocabulary when Lizzie D landed in the water jump with her jockey underneath, and her owner with his wooden leg hobbled around trying to pull her out.

I enjoyed the lunches in the infield, when the four-in-hands, tandems, pairs, and just plain buggies were drawn up along the rail, and dispensed delectable dishes from well laden hampers, while the popping of corks resounded on every side.

I remember how thrilled I was when Harry Bassett, with Jimmy Rowe up, emerged from the paddock in the red and blue silks of the powerful McDaniel Confederacy and "walked over" for the second running of the Dixie. It was a case of "Eclipse first, the rest nowhere," as the chestnut son of Lexington and Canary Bird could find few foemen worthy of his steel.

It was in this period that Pierre Lorillard was invariably in attendance at Pimlico with his powerful string, that carried the tasteful "cherry, black hoops on sleeves, black cap, gold tassel," to many a famous victory over the tough clay soil, that composed the track in those days. Mr. Lorillard drove one of the most perfectly appointed four-in-hands it was ever my good luck to behold, and the way he tooled his well matched team was a sight to behold.

About this time, I was supposed to be a student of parts—Latin and Greek were my daily portion, and even a logarithm or two was on my bill of fare.

Consequently, I spent considerable time in the Peabody Library, interspersing the Classics with an occasional reference to what was going on in the Turf World.

While thus engaged one morning, I happened to look up, and there in the doorway was no less a personage than Pierre Lorillard himself accompanied by his faithful Achilles, H. Skipwith Gordon, a Baltimorean, and near neighbor of my family on Charles Street, who managed his racing affairs.

Mr. Lorillard, a big, blond gentleman, seemed much interested in the books, a little different from the ordinary run of literature practiced by the bookmakers, and ever since the precincts of the Library have seemed to me sacred ground, hallowed by the footsteps of one of the "Kings of the Turf."

As remarked above, the Pimlico track had one of the toughest specimens of clay to the depth of several inches of any track in the country, and it was by no means unusual for the four day meeting, composed of four races daily, to be postponed from day to day until the track dried out to a reasonable degree.

Notice of this postponement was generally posted at The Maryland Club, and many well-laid plans for a jolly afternoon were upset by an unfavorable announcement.

However, mud meant little to such equine giants as Bushwhacker, Willie D., Glenmore, and others of like calibre, and to see these sturdy specimens of the Thoroughbred negotiate three heats of four miles each, as was the distance of the Bowie Stakes, would have made even Seabiscuit, or War Admiral, seasick.

Nowadays, the races go rain or shine, nobody minds the weather, and the only important question is can it "run in the mud."

However, the new Pimlico is far and away more comfortable than the old—the removal of the "hump" is a boon for the public, more attention is paid to the comfort of horses and attendants, and the card is run off with punctuality and dispatch.

The New Deal management, as personified by Maryland's ardent young turfman, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, leaves nothing to be desired, and the great match race between Seabiscuit and War Admiral, could have found no more fitting setting than the old, but modern, Pimlico course.

Aneroid to the Stud

Maryland's loss will be Kentucky's gain when John A. Manfuso's bay horse Aneroid, winner of 17 races and $73,085, makes his last start at Bowie, for following that the son of The Porter and Outburst retired to the stud at Edwin K. Thomas' Timberlawn Stud at Paris, Ky.

Ever a popular horse in Maryland, Aneroid's return to his best form in winning Pimlico's famous Riggs Handicap, though he started at 10-1, was greeted with cheers from his many supporters, as well as from the many who had not backed him. The race, in which Mr. Canon and Honey Cloud finished second and third, marked the downfall of the two good mares Esposa and Jacola. Aneroid's pedigree is appended:

DECEMBER, 1938

Sale Notes

Visitors from Kentucky for the sales were J. A. Estes, Editor of the excellent weekly, The Blood-Horse, which is devoted to the Thoroughbred, and Ira Drymon, who formerly managed Dixiana and now has the Gallaher Farm at Lexington under lease. At that farm Mr. Drymon stands Okapi, leased from Brookmeade Farm. Also from the Blue Grass was Dan B. Midkiff, who frequently bid for Frank Orsatti and acted as agent for the Californian in the shipment of the five head purchased, these going to Lexington, en route to Ed. Janss' Camarillo Ranch near Los Angeles.

Time O' War, young Thoroughbred raised at Stratford Hall, Virginia home of the Lee family and now owned by the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation, was knocked down to Mrs. Alfred I. DuPont, for $650. Mrs. DuPont promptly presented the Foundation with the colt again, and back he went next day, having served to bring in a sizeable contribution to the cause. Long ago there were good Thoroughbreds raised at Stratford. History will likely be repeated there.

Major Wilkie Burt was on hand in the hope of purchasing Balko for the U. S. Remount service, but was outbid by Frank Orsatti.

served their purpose well enough. Next time they are used they will be the better for having the spaces between the boards filled in up to four feet or so from the ground. Horses settle right down in these stalls for they can all see one another and are thus quite content as a rule.

The Western Kentucky breeders brought up some fine big yearlings of hunter make and shape. It pays to geld these early, for buyers of this sort of yearling will always pay more for geldings whose makeup can be well seen than for pretty, rounded up colts, that have the castration operation and consequent risk to face.

The sale brought many new bidders out who purchased a lot of breeding stock that will be scattered around Maryland and Pennsylvania, a number of mares going to the latter state. Of the stallions, while *By Pass II and Balko have gone to California, Baldpate was knocked down to Charles Beal, is now being used as a hack in a Baltimore riding school. Diecaster has gone to the Eastern Shore with the mares purchased by Carroll Hadaway and R. Wroth Stavely.

Our Readers Write

My dear Finney:

A great many horsemen are going to oppose the idea of branding on the right side of the neck under the mane, the registration number of the Thoroughbred. Their reasons:

1. The branding cannot be done until after a horse has been registered and hence the number is not a part of the American Stud Book records unless the breeder can induce the Jockey Club to alter his registration.

2. The registration numbers now run into six digits and breeders do not like to disfigure the appearance of a horse with a number like 371949, for, in addition to spoiling the appearance of a race horse, remember that a great many Thoroughbreds never reach the track and when sold privately as a pleasure horse appearance becomes even more of a factor in the sale.

Here is a system of branding that Marylanders might wish to consider:

1. Use letters instead of numbers. The reason: there are only 10 different digits and there are 26 different letters, hence while one numeral is helping identify nine horses one letter will help identify 26 different horses.

2. Brand on the right side of the neck, under the mane, with three letters:

a. The first letter of the proper name of the sire; prefixes such as The, Sir, Captain to be omitted.

b. The first letter of the proper name of the dam; prefixes such as The to be omitted.

c. The first letter of the last name of the breeder of the horse.

3. This identification of these three letters in this order could be branded on the horse before the foal is registered and hence the brand becomes a part of the original identification of the horse. For example—a foal by Discovery—Land-slide bred by Henry Francis would be branded DLF. A foal by War Hero—Emerald Star bred by Victor France would be branded thus WEF. A foal by *Sir Gallahad III—The Reef bred by Charles Harris would be marked thus GRH (prefixes such as Sir and The having been dropped.)

Moral: The branding of Thoroughbred horses will never be popular if it leads to obvious disfigurement of the animal.

Three factors now identify a horse—sex, age, color and marks.

By the use of this Maryland system of branding by initials three additional factors are added to the identification:

The initial of the sire.

The initial of the dam.

The initial of the breeder.

Thus we have six factors for identification. The chances of two horses being identical in sex, age, color and marks, initial of the sire, initial of the dam, initial of the breeder is so remote that the mathematical probabilities are enormous. And the chances of a person locating two such horses which would agree in every particular are extremely remote.

Thus this method of branding may well reconcile the desire for identification and the undesirable features of a large, long or complicated brand which would detract from the appearance of the horse.

Very truly yours, JEAN VALJEAN.

Periodic Ophthalmia

Mankind, in his never ending struggle against the unknown forces of nature, has been confronted with problems dealing not only with himself. In his dependence upon animals, both as a source of food, and as a means of pursuing his favorite sports, man has had to concern himself with the plagues and scourges of his domesticated animals.

One of the most disastrous of these maladies, which comes down to us unsolved, is Periodic or Recurrent Ophthalmia. It is by no means a new disease, though descriptions concerning it have not until recently reached the general reading public. Vegetius, one of the first writers on the diseases of animals, described it about the time of the fall of the Roman Empire.

The name "moon blindness" or "lunatic disease" was early ascribed to the condition, and indeed is still common, because it was felt that the phases of the moon bore some relationship to the onset and development of the condition. The fact of its recurrence, often at monthly intervals, further strengthened this belief. Other weird and fantastic theories as to its cause such as a "displeased spirit" and "wolf teeth" have been advanced.

With the advancement of knowledge science has sought to explain logically the cause of disease. Displeased spirits, wolf teeth, the moon and other fantasies of the imagination as a cause of Periodic Ophthalmia now have been left to boil dry in the cauldron of superstition.

Before attempting to lead the reader's mind into a consideration of the disease, it might be well to consider for a moment the structure of the eye. Anatomically it may be likened to a box camera, which is globular in shape however. Surrounding the outside and giving it a framework is a firm capsule called the sclera. It covers the back portion of the globe and extends as far forward as the window or cornea of the eye. In front, it is the part that becomes red in a so-called "blood shot eye." Just inside of this capsule is the middle lining which is in close contact with the outside coat or sclera, all the way around the globe except just behind the cornea where it drops down like a curtain with a hole in the center, which is the pupil. It is this curtain that gives the color to the eye, which is usually brown in the horse. In the so-called "watch eye" the color is light blue. This structure might be called the shutter of our "eye camera." Near the middle of the back of the globe, the nerve which carries visual pictures to the brain pierces the two outside coats of the eye. On the inside it spreads out all around in many fine threads built up into

As we see the disease, it presents a rather characteristic chain of symptoms, and is generally recognized by veterinarians and good horse-men. Usually just one eye is affected in the early stages of the disease. The symptoms appear suddenly, oftentimes over night. The lids are seen to be swollen and extremely red, and usually there is a great increase in the tears. Along with these changes the eye is found to be very sensitive to light. The symptoms are those of cold in the eye, but beware the horse with a cold in his eye. Weigh carefully the groom's statement that your favorite mount must have been restless last night and bumped his eye or that because there was no moon last night, the horse must have run into a branch of a tree or hedge while out in pasture. Very often the changes just described are the only ones met with in an early attack of the disease. They clear up themselves, oftentimes in a week or ten days, and no sign of the disease can be detected. Consult your veterinarian. He is the one best qualified to interpret the symptoms found. The only way to make a positive diagnosis of Periodic Ophthalmia however is to wait for the appearance of a subsequent attack. Rarely, but in some cases an eye will go completely blind from one attack. Usually six to eight recurrent attacks are necessary to bring about complete loss of vision. When the middle coat of the eye becomes involved it swells and as a result the pupil or shutter closes. A sticky fluid is poured out from the affected lining as is seen in an inflammation resulting from a burn or wound. This fluid flows in and about the structures of the eye, particularly over the lens and into the "jelly" of the eye. After being poured out, it congeals, the same as a scab seen over a cut.

This congealed material does not dry however because the eye is continually bathed by fluids. The congealed substance or exudate on the lens is in reality a cataract, which is one of the main reasons horses and mules go blind from Periodic Ophthalmia. This exudate is very elastic and keeps trying to contract, similar to a rubber band that has been stretched. This constant tendency to contract, if there has been a severe inflammation, and a lot of the elastic material formed, sometimes results in a shrinking in the size and a distortion in the shape of the eye ball. The eyes are no longer the same size, and the diseased eye appears somewhat flat and sunken in the socket. The formation of a cataract, and shrinking are not usually seen until after two or three attacks.

In our work here at the University of Pennsylvania, we are making a study of normal and affected eyes, taking weights and measurements in an effort to establish a comparison between healthy and diseased eyes in the same as well as different animals. Changes visible to the naked eye, as well as microscopic differences are also receiving consideration. The value of a study of this kind depends upon numerous examinations. This is rather difficult however as the disease in itself is not fatal, and owners cannot bring themselves to sacrifice their animals.

Throwing into the discard the causes of Periodic Ophthalmia viewed from the standpoint of superstition, let us now consider briefly the possible causes of the disease which have some scientific basis. Those usually mentioned are:

1. Environment
2. Dietary causes
3. Bacteriological agents
4. Virus agents
5. Parasites
6. Hypersensitivity (allergy)
7. Heredity

The first of these, environment, was one of the oldest factors considered as a cause of Periodic Ophthalmia both in the United States and Europe. Stabling horses in dark, damp barns or maintaining a herd in wet, poorly drained areas seemed to predispose the animals to the disease. Surveys by this and other institutions and groups seem to show the disease occurs with almost the same frequency under environmental conditions the direct antithesis of those just mentioned. Finding ourselves more or less up the proverbial "blind alley," we move on to a consideration of the next heading.

Dietary deficiencies, as a lack of minerals, vitamins and essential protein constituents have been suspected as the factors responsible for the production of Periodic Ophthalmia. Too often, however, the disease occurs in animals in the "pink" of condition, and in stables where careful regulation of the ration is a consideration of prime importance. To be sure, the lack of Vitamin A will produce an ophthalmia, but it could in no way be confused with Periodic or Recurrent Ophthalmia. These considerations, however, do not eliminate the possibility of disturbances of metabolism and assimilation. However, the appearance of the animals usually does not indicate that such a condition exists.

With the dawn of the age of bacteria, the cause of every conceivable ill of man and animals was apt to be laid at this door, at least until proven otherwise. Periodic Ophthalmia has come in for its share of study from the standpoint of bacteriology, but as yet no consistent results have been obtained.

The most promising work in the writer's opinion in ascribing a cause to this disease has come from a field closely related to bacteriology, that of viruses. A virus is a minute factor which has with one or two exceptions escaped detection. For the most part they pass through filters which are capable of retaining bacteria. In 1930, the disease was reported as being reproduced in both horses and experimental animals with recurrences through the use of a filtered agent obtained from the eyes of horses affected with Recurrent Ophthalmia. Up to this time, to reproduce the condition with recurrence had been the aim of all workers in this field. Substantiation of the work, however, remains for the future.

Parasites both in the eye and in the intestinal tract have come in for their share of investigation as a possible cause of this disease. So far anything of definite significance is lacking. In a consideration of this cause, however, we must reckon with the possibility of an intermediate host such as a fly or mosquito being responsible for the transmission of the agent capable of producing the disease.

Allergic phenomena such as hay-fever and the eruption of poison ivy have been found capable of producing definite inflammatory changes. Workers in this field, notably in Germany, have stated that the inflammation of the middle coat of the eye in Periodic Ophthalmia is an allergic manifestation. This is one of the newer theories of the cause of the disease, and further work is necessary to prove its worth.

The direct heritability of Periodic Ophthalmia is no longer held as tenable. Even the possibility of the inheritance of predisposing factors is not accepted very generally. As yet we know little of the possible part that allergy plays in the production of Periodic Ophthalmia. It has been shown that allergic tendencies may be inherited, so we cannot yet consider that all has been done to complete the chapter on heredity.

Reviewing for a moment the discussion of the causes of Periodic Ophthalmia, it would appear as though light is to be shed on the subject only through new research. We must not close our investigative eye however to any of the causes thus far attributed to the disease. Many of them, particularly the role of viruses, parasites, and allergy have only been touched upon. We are endeavoring to study these as well as gross and microscopical changes in affected eyes. Interpretation of the cause of Periodic Ophthalmia from the standpoint of pathological changes may be just upon the horizon. Who knows?

Until we can definitely state the cause of Periodic Ophthalmia, however, our treatment must remain empirical. Perhaps we will find our problem is not primarily one of therapeusis (drugs), but preventive medicine. Only continued application of the knowledge already gained, together with an attempt to interpret the anatomical changes in relation to the possible causes suggested, and the development of new fields of research will some day give us the answer to this problem. Maryland-Bred Winners

October has been definitely *Challenger II's month, that sire having compiled an enviable record through the performances of his produce in general and Challedon in particular. *Challenger II sired 10 winners of 13 races, while his owners, formerly operating as Branncastle Farm, now as Glade Valley Farm, and solely owned by William L. Brann, led the breeders of the state with 12 winners of 16 races credited to them. Second on the month's sire list is William Elder's Bud Lerner, who sired seven winners of 10 races. On the breeders' list, Labrot and Company placed second with four winners of as many races. In all 53 Maryland-bred racers accounted for 66 races. List of the winners follows:

Kerry Patch won the Futurity and the Queens County Handicap in which he beat Dark Secret. At one time or another Kerry Patch beat the best horses of his day. He won in excess of $107,000. The above pedigree is most convincing, as it shows the great strength of the sire and running lines that are so closely interwoven in Kerry Patch. This accounts for the speed, stamina, courage, superlative health, perfect manners, all of which go to make his fine class. The pedigree shows two Futurity winners within three generations, followed by seventeen St. Leger winners, 19 English Derby winners, 3 Triple Crown winners, 9 Two Thousand Guinea winners and two Oaks winners. In America he traces in tail female to Levity, a great brood mare, and through his sire to Maggie BB, a full sister to Iroquois, through *Light Brigade to Bridget, a full sister to Melton, sire of Sysonby. Comment could be made for hours on the crosses and strength of this pedigree. Breeders are cordially invited to take advantage and breed to a horse of such potential promise.

They are solid black in color and have no horns. They require no expensive buildings or equipment. Let Aberdeen Angus convert your pasture grasses and home grown feeds into quality beef and at the same time build up the fertility of your land.
